INSURGENT VICTORY MAY BE NULLIFIED BY ANOTHER VOTE

Senate Committee Will Recommend Substitute for Jones Resolution.

CANNON IS ADVISED NOT TO RUN AGAIN

Organization Stunned by Vote, Concedes "Uncle Joe's" Power Is Waning.

Speaker Cannon and the House regulars will be given another chance to provide for the appointment by the Speaker of the House members of the joint committee which is to conduct the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation.

The Senate Public Lands Committee held a meeting this morning and after a session of more than three hours decided to report out a substitute for the Jones resolution of investigation.

The substitute which the Public Lands Committee agreed upon provides for the appointment of the Senate members of the committee by the Vice President and for the appointment of the House members by the Speaker.

This is the case notwithstanding the fact that the House yesterday after overthrowing the Speaker and the regulars decided that the members of the committee on the part of the House should be elected.

Work Will Be Undone.

The substitute from the Public Lands Committee will be reported to the Senate and will probably be passed by that body. It will then go back to the House. When the House acts upon the Senate measure Speaker Cannon and his force will be given another whack at the insurgents. They will have a further opportunity to provide in the resolution that the Speaker appoint the House members of the committee instead of that they be elected.

The effect of this action of the Public Lands Committee may be to undo the work of the insurgents and Democrats yesterday when they defeated Speaker Cannon and his forces on the question of the Norris amendment of the House resolution, with respect to the selection of members by the House.

Trip To Alaska In View.

The substitute, which the Public Lands Committee agreed upon today makes a number of changes in the original Jones resolution. Most of these changes are of a minor nature. One change provides that the subpoenas for witnesses shall be issued by the chairman of the committee or of any subcommittee.

The original resolution appropriated $50,000. The substitute increases this to $25,000, evidently with the view that the subcommittee will go to Alaska. The House provision as to punishment for contempt and contempt proceedings are made use of of those in the original Jones resolution.

Senator Nelson will report the substitute resolution to the Senate Monday. It will be presented both as a substitute for the original Jones resolution and for the resolution which passed the House. It is probable that in the end the difference between the House and Senate resolution will be thrashed out in conference.

Critical Period Reached.

The House organization realizes today that a critical period has been reached in the fight with the insurgents.

Neither Speaker Cannon nor his advisers have recovered from the shock of defeat administered by means of the Norris amendment depriving the Speaker of his power to appoint the House committee which will serve with a similar committee of the Senate in conference.

WEATHER REPORT.

The temperature has fallen in the Eastern States, with freezing temperatures as far south as northern Florida, and temperatures below zero are again reported from Minnesota and the Dakotas. At Richmond, N. D., Friday night the temperature was twenty-two degrees below zero.

The weather during tonight and Sunday in the States east of the Mississippi river will be warmer and generally fair, except that there will be rain on the south Atlantic coast and in eastern Florida, and snow flurries over the Lake region.

The winds along the New England coast will be moderate southwest and west; on the middle Atlantic coast moderate northeast and east; on the east Gulf coast moderate northeasterly.

FORECAST FOR THE DISTRICT. Fair weather with rising temperature tonight and Sunday, minimum temperature tonight about twenty-two degrees; light to moderate south and southwest winds.

ASKS HALF MILLION INCREASE FOR ARMY

Chairman Hull Presents Bill Calling for $95,000,000 Appropriation.

In committee of the whole the House of Representatives considered the annual army appropriation bill today.

The bill calls for an appropriation of over $95,000,000. An increase of a half million over last year's bill was called for because of the increased cost of living.

Representative Hull, chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, urged its passage without reduction. He challenged a statement by Representative Tawney that 72 per cent of the money appropriated last year was for wars past or to come.

Representative Driscoll of New York asked Hull what he thought the percentages should be.

"We should not count pensions in this," answered Hull, "because the results of the civil war were so far reaching that the pension list for the civil war is greater than anything of the kind in the history of the world."

"GIRL WITH RED HAIR" SLASHED TO RIBBONS

Art Students Indignant Over Destruction of Kenyon Cox's Realistic Composition.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—"The Girl With the Red Hair," famed among artists as a realistic example of figure work, and painted by Kenyon Cox in Paris twenty years ago, was found destroyed by a janitor in the rooms of the Art Students' League.

The picture was presented to the league by the artist two years ago. It was never exhibited, being considered too frank for the general public, but was kept for students.

The undraped figure from the chin down had been cut from the canvas, and the rest of the composition had been slashed into ribbons.

AWAKENS TO FIND HUSBAND A CORPSE

Death Comes to Sleeping Man Who Retired Feeling Well.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8.—To awaken and find that she had been sleeping beside a corpse was the trying experience of Mrs. Ella M. Waller, of 3107 Elliott street, about 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Her husband, Benjamin Franklin Waller, forty-seven years old, superintendent of the rolling mill at Canton, died while Mrs. Waller slept, the woman being unaware that he was even unwell.

CHILDRENS' SINGING PUTS DOWN A PANIC

Obedient Orders of Cool Pastor, Chorus Stops Rush From Church.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Cool in the face of danger, the Rev. Benjamin E. Dickhaut prevented a panic yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church, Jamaica, L. I.

Four hundred children were in church to form a chorus. They were singing when a woman in the gallery smelled burning evergreen. Her cry of alarm caused a rush for the door. A half minute more and there surely would have been a mad scramble by the children.

But Mr. Dickhaut rose to the occasion. "Attention!" he cried. "Sing that chorus!" The 400 did. "Now the second verse!" And they went through it to the end, by which time the women realized that the church was not on fire.

Search failed to show the source of the smell.

CARDINAL SATOLLI IS DEAD AT ROME

Prince of Catholic Church Claimed a Victim of Nephritis.

PAPAL DELEGATE TO UNITED STATES

Distinguished Prelate Makes Three Memorable Visits to This Country.

ROME, Jan. 8.—Francesco Satolli, one of the five cardinal bishops of the Catholic church, died at 8 o'clock this morning, after a three weeks' illness of nephritis.

Cardinal Satolli was seventy-one years old, and was raised to the cardinalate in 1885. He was professor of congregational studies at the time of his death.

For more than two weeks the cardinal's death had been expected. He made frequent rallies, but the doctors held out no hope almost from the first.

The Pope was greatly distressed on learning of Cardinal Satolli's death.

Of Noble Family.

Cardinal Satolli was born of noble family in Marsiano, archdiocese of Perugia, July 21, 1839.

In the course of his distinguished career he has made three memorable visits to the United States. He came first as the papal representative to the Catholic Congress and celebration of the centenary of the Catholic hierarchy in November, 1883. His next visit was in October, 1892, when he represented the Pope at the Chicago World's Fair, under appointment as first apostolic delegate to the United States. It was during this visit he was appointed cardinal.

His third visit, after he attained the rank of cardinal bishop, in June, 1894, was notable for the reason that it was the first time a cardinal was permitted to leave Rome on other than official business.

Student At Perugia.

Cardinal Satolli was educated in the seminary of Perugia and the College of the Propaganda, and Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics at Rome. He was almost continually an educator and at one time held the office of president of the Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics, one of the greatest positions in the educational work of Italy and of the Catholic Church.

He was prefect of the Sacred College of Studies, member of the Congregation of the Propaganda, Oriental Rites and Index, and president of the Pontifical Academy of St. Thomas Aquinas.

CARDINAL GIBBONS GREATLY SHOCKED

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8.—Cardinal Gibbons was deeply shocked on receiving the announcement of the death of Cardinal Satolli. Only a short while ago Cardinal Gibbons sent him Christmas greetings.

"Cardinal Satolli was one of the most eloquent men I ever knew," said Cardinal Gibbons. "He was moreover a wonderful scholar, particularly in the Latin and Italian languages."

"As a speaker it would be difficult to imagine anyone surpassing Cardinal Satolli. I first met him when he came here in 1889 upon the occasion of the 100th establishment of the Catholic hierarchy in this country through the See of Baltimore. We had a pleasant personal conversation then, and he was here as our guest. In 1896 we met again when the red hat or cardinal's biretta, was conferred upon Cardinal Satolli in this city in 1898. He was in this country again when President Roosevelt showed him distinguished courtesy."

Cardinal Gibbons will communicate with Rome on the subject of observances in this country out of respect to the memory of Satolli.

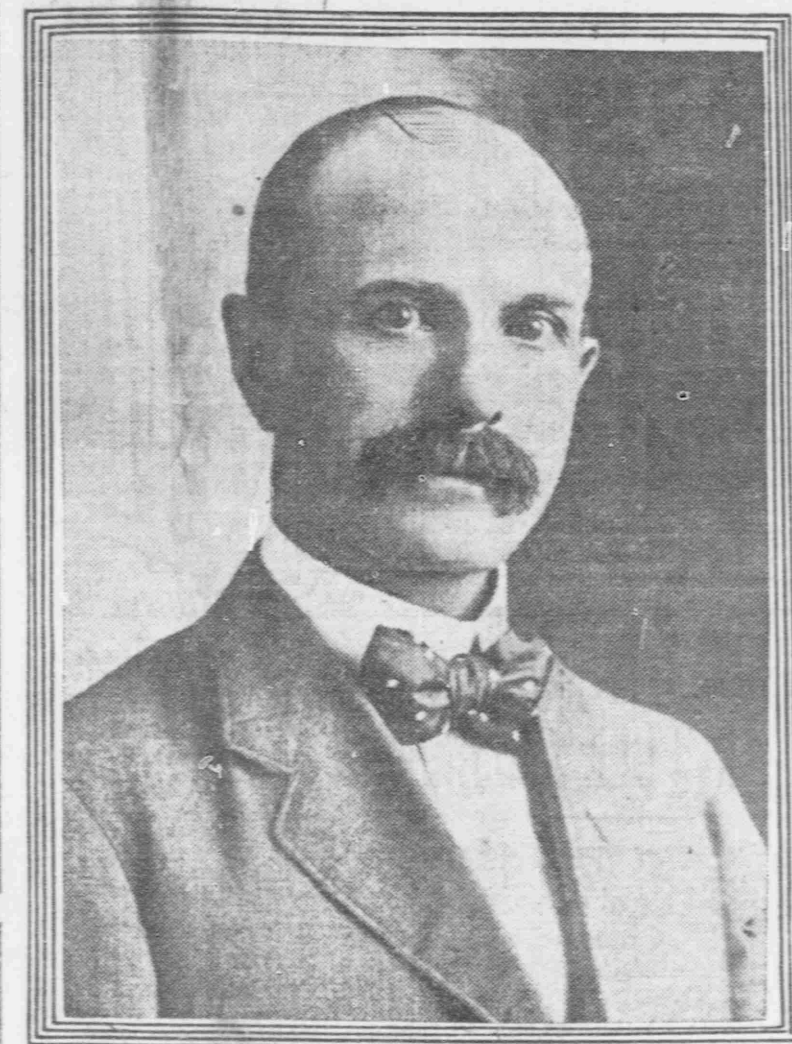

TWO EARTHQUAKES FELT IN CALABRIA

Many Houses Damaged and Loss of Life Is Feared.

ROME, Jan. 8.—Two severe earthquakes wrought heavy damage today in Calabria, in Calabria.

The shocks were of unusual duration and threw the inhabitants into a panic. Many houses were damaged and it is feared there has been loss of life.

CHICAGO CASTING NET FOR GIRL TAXI BANDIT

Young Woman Is Leading Police in Residence Section Merry Chase—Her Method of Hold-up Is Novel and Courageous.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—The "girl in the taxicab," who has been holding up people in the residence district of Chicago for several days is giving the Chicago detectives a merry chase, and today a drag-net has been thrown out for her arrest.

Tony Lenzo is today short a watch and a sum of money, owing to his gallant behavior when he met the taxi bandit. Lenzo was walking under a southside railroad viaduct, when he met the "girl in the taxicab." She was also walking, and when about five feet from him she threw up her hands and fell to the pavement as if in a faint. Lenzo gallantly rushed to her side. He was just about to pick her up when he found himself looking into the mouth of a revolver.

The woman arose and went through Lenzo's pockets in great haste, and then told him to "skedaddle."

After he had got out of her sight, Lenzo stepped behind a bridge pillar and watched the girl. He says she hurried to the west end of the viaduct entered a waiting taxicab and vanished.

HEARINGS TO DELAY ATTIRED AS MAN, BOARD NOMINATIONS WOMAN IS KILLED

Macfarland Arranges With District Committees for Appropriation Discussion.

Commissioner Macfarland called on Senator Gallinger today and arranged with him as chairman of the subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee in charge of the District appropriation bill, for the three Commissioners of the District to be heard by the subcommittee beginning Tuesday at 2 o'clock. The hearings will continue for two or three days. All the District estimates will be gone over.

Further than this, it has been arranged that the nominations of the new Commissioners, Cuno Rudolph and General Johnston, will not be confirmed until after the hearings on the District appropriation bills have been completed.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 8.—The discovery today of the body of a young woman, about eighteen years of age, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks at Benwood Junction, attired in male clothes, points strongly to murder. A man with whom she had been seen a short time before her death has disappeared, and the police of Wheeling and neighboring towns are on the lookout for him.

The impression is that the man and woman who had been traveling together, had quarreled, and he threw her in front of a fast-moving train.

A MISER'S GOLD AND ITS HARVEST OF DEATH.

A FEW days ago some of the most distinguished lawyers in the State of Virginia argued before the Supreme Court of Appeals at Richmond the appeal of Samuel Hardy, convicted of the murder of Tiberius Gracchus Jones, and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

A few days before that the town of Holland, in Nansemond county, was wiped out of existence by fire, its thriving prosperity destroyed in a night.

These are late incidents in the curious and tragic romance that had its origin in the life and its aftermath following the death of Zachary T. Holland, one of the strangest characters the Old Dominion has ever produced.

The story mingles love, revenge, the intrigues of a country village, the dominance of a master mind over others of lesser acuteness and ability, murder, swiftly done; it tells of old Zach Holland's early passion, which in later years he transferred to the daughter of the woman he once had sought to make his wife. It describes the evil fate that has followed many of the personages of this life drama, like the hand of nemesis itself, and it shows, too, how the innocent sometimes have suffered with the guilty.

News reports of the crimes and the criminal trials which form part of the web and woof of the story have given some of its striking salient features, but the heart of the matter and its throbbing interest have been scarcely touched. There are personages in the drama whose names have never been told.

On behalf of The Washington Times Edwin Rials made an investigation of these facts, and the result of his investigation will be printed in tomorrow's Sunday Evening Edition of The Times.

Mr. Rials spent some days in this research, and the result is a new story of keenest dramatic interest.

PRESIDENT'S STAND BRINGS TO A CRISIS FORESTRY FEUD

Deposed Forester Is Cheered by His Men When He Reaches Bureau; Prepares Office for His Successor, Albert F. Potter.

EXPECTED TO MAKE STATEMENT LATER

Believed Tone of Messages of Former Official Will Be Different Now That He Is Finally Out of the Service.

By J. C. WELLIVER.

With President Taft and his Cabinet summarily dismissing Gifford Pinchot from the position of forester, in which he has been the stormy petrel of the Administration; with the House of Representatives at almost the same hour placing itself on record as opposed to the Administration plan for an investigation of the Ballinger-Pinchot feud; with a tremendous fight scheduled to begin in the Senate on Monday, involving the method and purpose of the investigation, and with another bitter fight before the House over the election of the membership of the House division of the investigating committee, the Ballinger-Pinchot conservation quarrel has in a single day precipitated the whole national political and legislative situation into chaos, and what some extreme people call anarchy.

Early this morning Forester Pinchot received the formal notice from Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, notifying him of his dismissal, and directing him to turn over his office and duties to Albert F. Potter, assistant forester, who has had charge of grazing matters.

NOTICE FROM WILSON.

At the same time Messrs. Overton W. Price, associate forester, and Alexander C. Shaw, law officer of the Forest Service, received from Secretary Wilson curt letters dismissing them from the service.

The deposed forester and his two associates in disfavor were early at their office at the Forest Service, on F street. The establishment looked more like the camp of the victors than the headquarters of the defeated forces.

Forester Pinchot's big outer office was crowded by 10 o'clock with friends calling, not to condole, but to extend their earnest congratulations. Mr. Pinchot was the most cheerful man present. He expressed regret at leaving the service, but none whatever at the manner of his leaving.

Wire Congratulations.

Telegrams began early to come in from all over the country, and these, likewise, were couched in terms of congratulation. In short, the friends and supporters of the deposed forester seemed utterly unable to recognize the outcome as a defeat.

Cheers shook the building as Pinchot entered the assembly room today to take leave of the bureau's employees. A score of times in the course of his address Mr. Pinchot was hailed by the storm of applause which broke in sincere testimonial of the love in which these people had served him. Paying tribute to the effort and worth of Messrs. Price and Shaw, Mr. Pinchot said that he could not say good-by to the ideals of the work as the desire of Americans for America would always enlist his efforts so long as the people of the country desired them.

Leaving the room Mr. Pinchot was the only person smiling. The others followed visibly moved by the leave taking of their chief. Standing at the bottom of the stairs Law Officer A. S. Shaw was congratulated by every one in turn. "Never," said one of them, "are we more proud to shake your hand than now."

Many Rumors.

Thus the first crisis in the Administration feud has come; and, with Pandora's box of troubles opened, the air is full of rumors of new insurgencies, of popular protest, of Administration programs, and of troubles for the organizations in both House and Senate in carrying through the project for investigation.

Events developed at lightning speed last night. After an all-day session the President and his Cabinet at 7 o'clock last night agreed upon their course with reference to Gifford Pinchot, and there was issued the text of a carefully drawn and bitter letter, addressed to Mr. Pinchot, informing him that his summary dismissal from the Government service had been directed.

Two hours earlier the House of Representatives had adopted an amendment to the Humphrey resolution for the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation, providing that the House should elect, instead of commissioning the Speaker to appoint, the House members of the committee.

The events of the last two days are recognized on every hand as politically epoch-making. Everybody assumes that the real history of the Taft Administration will date from the present crisis in this feud. That the war against Secretary Ballinger and his conduct of the Interior Department will be pushed with more activity and greater freedom than ever, is declared on every hand. Mr. Pinchot would make no statement today, in reply to the letter of the President, but it is understood among his

PURE FOOD LAW APPLIES TO ALL

Cabinet Officers Deny Any One Has Been Given Exemption.

Four resolutions directed to the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney General by Representative Steenerson, of Minnesota, asking whether any order had been issued exempting any one from the operation of the pure food law, caused a tangle in the House today.

Representative Mann, of Illinois, reported the four resolutions with answers from the Cabinet officers concerned denying that any such orders had ever been issued.

Representative Steenerson asked postponement because he is not ready to discuss them. He says he simply wants the cry against alleged laxity in the enforcement of the pure food law stopped by getting at the facts.

YOUTH KILLS ROBBERS.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 8.—Two white yeomen were shot and instantly killed in a duel in the postoffice here today by Paul Saults, the seventeen-year-old son of Jim Saults, the night watchman, who was acting in his father's place. Young Saults was slightly wounded.
